This Hurricane Florence map is bringing laughs during a pretty scary time

We could all use a little levity with Hurricane Florence barreling relentlessly toward the east coast. Of course, the first concern is everyone in its path evacuating safely and finding shelter, but in tracking the storm's progress, the internet discovered a graphic that was basically comedy gold.

The Facebook page for National Hurricane Updates issued a warning yesterday regarding certain zones where bad damage may occur as Hurricane Florence hits. It was all very weather-y and science-y, that is, until you notice the included graphic.

The very helpful image was meant to demonstrate the powerful storm's trajectory, but instead, inadvertently terrified everyone into thinking a giant schlong was heading straight for the Carolina and Virginia coasts.

Ignore the specific numbers as they will change & likely increase, but based on the latest NHC forecast here's where the most extensive wind damage may occur. Zone: Wilmington, Jacksonville, Emerald Isle, Morehead City, Burgaw. 115+ mph sustained likely. Get all the latest information on Florence with the Hurricane Tracker App at www.hurtracker.com

Yes ignore those numbers, girl — they will likely increase. Giggity giggity. Sorry I'm like this.

The page's administrator's claim they had no idea they were putting this big ol' dick out into the world, and if that's truly the case, bless their hearts. But if they really were just trolling in the hopes of keeping spirits up during a very scary time, bless them even more — because we as a nation needed this.

National Hurricane Updates But yeah, was a totally unintentional graphic.

Hurricane Map Has Some Unfortunate Graphics And The Comment Section Is Gold

Of course, it wasn't at all lost on Facebook commenters who immediately noticed the huge member about to just plow into North Carolina.

Stephen Merritt Why is there a penis attacking North Carolina

Lisa makes a point, as we all know what happens when people are cooped up indoors waiting out a storm. Or a huge wiener aimed directly at coastal North Carolina.

Lisa Hatch Barcia I sure hope we dont have a little Florence 9 months from now

At least she's bringing protection?

Danny Casler It appears Florence is going to penetrate the bottom of the east coast shortly. Good news is that Florence, being respectful, is wearing a condom. Since Florence won't be cumming in dry. Expect it to be moist!

But as Kimberly points out, this storm hopefully won't be around for very long.

Kimberly Halstead Hercl Don't worry, if this thing is coming in like most guys, it's coming in hard and won't last more than two minutes
